Reclaimed water to sprinkle golf courses

by Elizabeth Cowley

The Pebble Beach water reclamation project grand opening was held on September 21 at the Spyglass Founders Clubhouse in Pebble Beach. This 8 year project was due to the combined efforts of the Carmel Area Wastewater District (CAWD), Pebble Beach Community Service District (PBCSD), Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) and the Pebble Beach Company (PBC).

William Gianelli, president of the PBCSD, was the master of ceremonies.

Lone Cypress Company executive vice-president Hiroshi Watanabe

Speakers included Mark Stilwell, PBC Real Estate Division Vice President, Sam Karas, 5th District Supervisor, Marc Del Piero, members State Water Resources Control Board, David Kennedy, Director of the California Department of Water Resources, and Larry Foy, Cal-Am Vice President. The speakers uniformly praised the cooperation between the PBC and public agencies in addition to the environmental benefits of the plant.

To conclude the ceremony the speakers turned a valve which activated the sprinklers of the 18th green, symbolically demonstrating the plant's success.

The plant is owned and operated by CAWD and the PBCSD, and treats wastewater to the tertiary level for irrigation use on all 8 golf courses in Pebble Beach as well as the Robert Louis Stevenson School recreational grounds and the equestrian center.

Dam takes another step forward

by Elizabeth Cowley

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District voted 6 to 1 to certify the final Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for the Monterey Peninsula Water Supply Project (MPWSP) on Monday, September 19. Lou Haddad was the only board member dissenting.

The purpose of this project is to reduce drought vulnerability and to provide for planned growth. The Water Board filed its notice of EIR preparation in 1982 which initially investigated 243 alternatives. After 12 years, several revisions and many public hearings the 24,000 acre-foot Los Padres Dam proposed to be constructed on the Carmel River was determined to be the best alternative by the Water Board at a cost of about $100.

The final EIR ideally represents full disclosure and consideration of all environmental impacts. Where significant environmental impacts are identified the EIR should spell out mitigation measures to reduce or eliminate those impacts. Where unavoidable significant environmental impacts are identified the certifying agency may still certify the EIR if they determine overriding considerations apply. A ruling of overriding considerations usually means that the certifying agency believes that the economic benefits of a project outweigh the negative environmental impacts.

Andretti to retire after race at Laguna Seca

That Al Unser, Jr. has wrapped up the season title doesn't even matter.

The Bank of America 300, the feature event of the Toyota Grand Prix of Monterey, will be the most significant race of the year because it will be the final farewell for America's most famous racing legend - Mario Gabriel Andretti.

Andretti, 54, will officially retire from racing when the checkered flag waves on October 9th at Laguna Seca Raceway. It will mark the end of a career that has spanned three decades and has included more accomplishments than any one man could possibly hope to achieve.

Look for Lions and White Canes

Members of the Carmel Host and Carmel Rancho Lions Clubs will be soliciting contributions on the streets of Carmel and at major shopping areas at the mouth of the valley on Friday, September 30th and Saturday, October 1, and handing out "white canes" to contributors. All proceeds go to sight conservation programs, the principal beneficiary being the Blind and Visually Impaired Center of Monterey County, Inc., in Pacific Grove.

Last year the clubs collected over $7,000 through White Cane Days and a local letter solicitation program in conjunction with White Cane Days and donated over $18,000 to sight conservation and other community programs involving the visually impaired, seniors and youth.

Some of the White Cane Days funds also support the Lions Eye Foundation of California - Nevada, Inc., and the Lions Club International Association worldwide SightFirst projects. The Lions Eye Foundation provides free eye care, other than glasses, to people in California and Nevada to whom such needed service is not otherwise available.

In its Campaign SightFirst, which ended this past June 30th, Lions Clubs International raised over $137 million through over 1,400,000 Lion members in 178 countries. These funds are dedicated to eradicating preventable blindness in the world.

The World Health Organization (WHO) estimates that there are at least 40 million blind people in the world today and warns that the number could double within the next 25 years. WHO also estimates that as many as 80 percent of those who go blind lose their sight to preventable or reversible causes, especially cataract, Vitamin A deficiency, river blindness, trachoma, glaucoma and complications of diabetes.

One-hundred percent of funds raised through White Cane Days will be donated to The Blind & Visually Impaired Center in Pacific Grove and to other Lions Clubs International sanctioned sight programs.

The Carmel Valley Kiwanis honored their former presidents at a recent luncheon at the Hidden Valley Conference Center. 18 former presidents are still active in the Carmel Valley Club. Mr. Lou Allaire (1960) and Mr. Lou Gardner (1963) were the earliest term ex-presidents present.

Literacy program has new VISTA volunteers

Two new Vista volunteers have started working with NTI (Nellie Thomas Institute). Rachael Allen, herself a graduate of Genesis Residential Center in Seaside, and Stephanie Nelson, a recent graduate from Arizona State University, bring great strength and spirit to VISTA's Literacy-Recovery program.

The two join Fernando Guzman, a retired bank executive already in his third year as a VISTA; Fernando is in charge of the recruitment and training of volunteer tutors at NTI's homework club at the boys and Girls Club, also in Seaside.

VISTA is a national service organization, now in its 30th year; it is a domestic "peace corps" of sorts. The volunteers pledge a year of service, earning only a minimal stipend, and work forty hours a week with the commitment to help break the poverty cycle and assist in building a future for those in need by gaining skills to pursue a better quality of life.

NTI is a nonprofit literacy outreach institute dedicated to education for the nontraditional learner and at-risk groups, including adults in recovery, juvenile offenders, and children from low-income who need tutoring.

Already, both have begun developing curriculum and ideas to present to the learners at Genesis House and Door to Hope (a women's facility in Salinas). Over two hundred learners are served yearly, and the challenge to reach and teach them is being met head-on by these two young women.

Rachel is currently developing a small study group which uses the basic text from AA and NA (Alcoholics and Narcotics Anonymous). She has even managed to get the books free from donors in the fellowship.

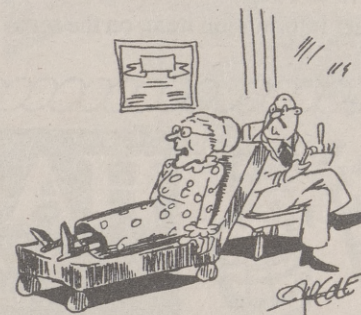

Stephanie has a great knowledge of world cultures, having spent two years in Thailand as a teenager; her college studies have included curriculum development, grant writing and fund raising, and the understanding of disadvantaged populations.

Rachael and Stephanie are keenly aware of their challenges, and since their induction to VISTA in late July, have joined with NTI and its programs.

NTI's VISTA Volunteers for 1994 (l-r) Rachel Allen, Fernando Guzman and Stephanie Nelson. Guzman is a Carmel Valley resident, serving his second year with NTI.

tendent Vance Baldwin presented an update on school facilities, regarding ongoing construction.

The contractor that will work on roof replacement and repair at Carmelo Child Development Center is Williams Roofing. The district awarded the construction bid to the tune of $82,814.

Another information item, on the regular agenda, involved the District's plans to establish a way for CUSD employees to use pre-tax dollars to pay for health and dependent care benefits. The plan, formally known as an Internal Revenue Code Section 125 plan, allows employees to claim the health care expenses to reduce their taxable income.

According to Judy Long, Director of Business and Support Services for the district, the program is also called a "cafeteria" plan because of the array of choices.

"It has nothing to do with food service," she hastily explained. She noted that a couple of local financial services businessmen, Bill Rand and Jerry Harner, are assisting in putting the plan in place (at no cost to the district).

The 1994/95 Board of Education Meeting Schedule is now approved. The next few meetings are as follows: Oct. 6, at Carmel High School; Oct. 20 at Carmel Middle School; Nov. 17 at CMS and Dec. 8 at CMS. All meetings are at 7 p.m.; the meetings at CMS are in the library.

In other business, the district accepted the following gifts: Jon Dugan donated an Apple computer with "extensive software" and accessories and an Apple printer; Mattie Matthews donated several dozen 2-4" wooden balls for arts and crafts programs in the district; Alan Rosen, a local pediatricist, donated a 55-cup coffee maker to CHS for use in the concession stands, and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Call donated two large clay pots for plants, designated for use in the main hallway at CHS.

$100,000 Packard grant for Foundation

The Community Foundation for Monterey County recently was awarded grants totaling $100,000 from the David and Lucille Packard Foundation of Los Altos.

The first grant was a 1-for-2 challenge grant of $50,000 in support of the Community Foundation's Fund for the Arts, a new fund established to provide ongoing support for the Monterey County Cultural Council and the special needs of the Carmel Bach Festival, the Carmel Music Society, The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, the Monterey County Symphony, Youth Music Monterey, and the Pacific Repertory Theater.

The second grant from the Packard Foundation was a direct grant of $50,000 to add to the endowment of the new Fund for the Environment to eventually make grants to Monterey County agencies working in the environmental education area.

Hill claims Field's workers tactics are unfair what do you think about changing Carmel Valley Road to three lanes?

Sue Knapp Nurse

I think it would be absolutely terrible! Think of the air pollution we see now with the wood burnings. Three lanes would ruin the country atmosphere.

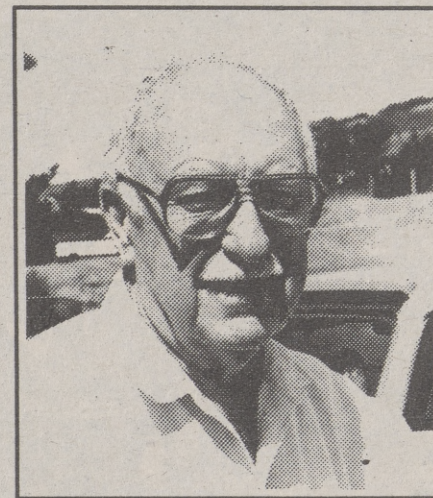

Herman Lehman
County Employee

I feel it's an unnecessary worry for the village at this time. Let's straighten out the jam at the mouth of the valley first.

Sally Fargo
Garden Enthusiast

I think it would be the worst possible thing they could do! Three lanes make for more accidents and are too dangerous. I used to live near one and it was known as a "dieway", not the highway, because of so many accidents. Absolutely not three lanes!

Jim Miller
U.S. Army Col., ret.

I don't think there's a need now, but eventually it is going to have to happen. When I moved here 33 years ago, it wasn't important, but today it's different. If I had a daily schedule to make it'd be difficult to contend with the traffic.

FUN IN THE SUN Dave Lyons

Hey boys and girls, guys and dolls, dudes and dudettes, this is IT, the BIG weekend you've all been waiting for is finally HERE... so... wax up those old Woodies, bleach that bush blonde hair, dig through the closet for that really UGLY Hawaiian shirt, and cruise your little deuce coupe on down the Pacific Coast Highway to the Carmel Valley Community Center THIS SUNDAY, October the 2nd, for the umpteenth annual, totally tubular, SURFIN' SAFARI!

DO NOT MISS this incredible FREE end-of-the-summer Music in the Park Concert and day of family fun, featuring the great 50s and 60s musical sounds of CLOSE ENUFF... the next best thing to a day at Redondo Beach!

Dennis Wilson sez: "Get there early for good parking and a great spot on the lawn and you'll have fun, fun, fun..." Yes, the excellent times and good vibrations get underway at noon, and won't stop until the last tropical drink has been poured. This will be your final chance of the '94 season to frolic freely in the Carmel Valley funshine, while supporting your Community Center, and... a whole bunch of other local clubs, school groups, and organizations!

In addition to the most totally awesome sounds of CLOSE ENUFF, this radical day of family fun will also feature an array of games for kids of all ages, a Club Med variety of real tasty food, the usual selection of refreshing cold beverages, the gnarly in-the-blading demonstration by local thrill-seekers, and... the much awaited and long anticipated return of... you guessed it... Debbie's Dancin' dinosaur! But wait... there's MORE... like, you know, the most ugly Hawaiian shirt contest (with a real neato prize) the waterballoon and/or really ripe mango tossing competition, the hoola hoop contest, the dance contest, the best decorated booth contest, the Jan and Dean look-alike competition... and... something NEW this year... LAWN SURFING! Coach Lee Warner will instruct...

A reminder that the Community POOL will also be open the day of SURFIN' SAFARI, for all you surf punks out there who just can't let go of the summer and need that (perhaps) last chance of the season to catch some rays poolside or perhaps make some waves of your own... Yes, the summer swim season is winding down to the last few days of golden sunshine... the pool will be open this coming Sat. and Sun. for what could be the final weekend of the year. After this it all depends on the weather and the PG&E bill, so... watch this space for further details or contact the CVCYC office at (all together now) 659-3983 for a complete status report on the Community Pool.

Is it me, or is it, like, getting darker a lot sooner than it was, say, last month? Yes, the daze of Indian Summer are here, a time for reflection, football, the World Series and (opps, sorry...) family picnics in the park! Hey, the bus-loads of tourists are gone, and now is the perfect time to invite 20 or more of your closest friends to come on out to the Community Park one of these weekends and fire up one of the barbecue grills! For larger groups, a reservation is suggested to insure the park location of your choice. Call the Community Center Office at (that's right) 659-3983 and let us help you plan the perfect Fall gathering!

The plant will reduce the flow of secondary treated wastewater into the Carmel Bay by 700,000 gallons per day, and displace 800 acre feet of potable water formerly used for irrigation. 420 acre feet will be allocated by the MPWMD for new hookups and/or drought reserve. 365 acre feet is reserved for the PBC proposed development of 350 units and a golfcourse, 10 acre feet to J. Lohr Properties and 5 acre feet to the Hester Hyde Griffin Trust Property.

This $33.9 million project was financed entirely by the PBC through issuing Certificate of Participation Bonds. The bonds will be paid back by using the proceeds from the reclaimed water sales and the PBC has guaranteed to cover any shortfalls.

For historical reference - the Carmel Valley Ranch was the first development on the Monterey Peninsula to construct a water reclamation plant in 1981; it was a condition of project approval.

Unavoidable significant environmental impacts identified in the Certified Los Padres Dam EIR include:

- No flow in the lower Carmel River in critically dry years, about 5-13% of the time, which will be detrimental to steel-head migration and riparian vegetation.

- Significant increase in traffic, exhaust, noise and dust during the 22 months of construction.

- Cultural resources, primarily of the Esselen Tribe, were identified as potentially significant and unavoidable as a complete study has yet to be completed.

Cachagua residents were uniformly enraged that their interest were not sufficiently addressed in the EIR. Most Cachagua residents do not reside in the incorporated area of Monterey and cannot vote on the project nor will they receive any of the benefits although they will suffer most of the negative impacts.

Cachagua residents and Citizens for Alternative Water Solutions made several presentations to the Water Board against the certification of the EIR citing that the unavoidable impacts are unacceptable and that many significant impacts were never addressed.

Jack Galante of Galante Vineyards made a presentation to the Board indicating that the EIR does not address the economic impacts of the Dam's construction on Cachagua Wineries. The dust, smoke, and climatic changes resulting from dam construction will reduce the quality of Cachagua grapes, affecting the livelihood of Winery owners and all of their employees. An infestation of phylloxera, an aphid-like pest, is likely with the increased construction traffic. An infestation would cost winery owners thousands of dollars. None of these impacts were identified or mitigated in the EIR.

The residents feel the EIR does not sufficiently mitigate construction period traffic conditions. The road into Cachagua has many hairpin turns, is very narrow and does not have the capacity to handle two large trucks passing. Emergency services are also a concern as Cachagua only has a volunteer fire and rescue department and fears that they will not be able to handle the increase in injuries and accidents during the construction period.

Although the EIR has been certified, the citizenry of Monterey County must still vote on the bond issue to fund the project prior to the dam's construction.

FROM WHERE I STAND

Lee Phelps

This is an Action Necessary column!

Have you ever heard of David Dutra? Probably not. Eleven years ago, in December of 1963, Dutra brutally bludgeoned a young woman to death . . . or so he thought. Her name was Joanne, and she was twenty-four years old, daughter of Enrico and Jennie Rolle of Redwood City (San Mateo County).

Dutra left Joanne, her skull fractured and her blood flowing onto her living room carpet, and calmly went into the bathroom to take a shower. After washing his blood-stained body, and packing his bloodstained clothes in a suitcase he got from the closet, he returned to the front room. There, bending low to get a closer look at his vicious work, he discovered that Joanne wasn't dead; she was still breathing, still alive.

Well, Dutra took care of that. With utter disregard for the most basic elements of humanity he finished the job by strangling Joanne until she was dead.

Not until May, 1985, was David Dutra finally convicted and sent to prison. The sentence? Fifteen years to life. But wait, there's more: that sentence was handed down before "three strikes and you're out" took effect earlier this year. Before state law was changed to require criminals to serve at least eighty percent of their sentence before becoming eligible for possible parole.

David Dutra, one of the most callous and vicious murderers I have ever been appalled to read about just might be paroled this coming December . . . unless you, and I, and a whole lot of people we know and contact become involved to prevent it!

Dutra has served only nine and one-half years in prison; his victim, Joanne, will be dead for eternity. How do you feel about turning him loose to walk the streets again, a free man? If you believe in justice, you must be as outraged at the thought as Mr. and Mrs. Rolle are, and I am.

David Dutra does not deserve and should not receive parole!

How can it be prevented? With a massive outpouring of mail addressed to: Mr. James E. Nielsen, Chairman Board of Prison Terms 428 "J" Street, Sixth Floor Sacramento, CA 95814

Letters or postcards, no matter. Typed or handwritten. The message need be neither long nor complicated. In fact, the more simple and direct, the better: "David Dutra, prisoner #D-07171 is not deserving of parole, and I (we) forcefully urge the board to reject his application for parole and keep him in state prison for at least the minimum fifteen years of his sentence," or your own words to the same effect.

Your messages, by law, are kept strictly confidential by the Board of Prison Terms. Write yourself, and get your relatives, your friends, your social and business acquaintances, anyone who believes paroling David Dutra would be a miscarriage of justice to write also.

Joanne's parents will be very grateful, and so will I, for your active help and support to keep this cruel and subhuman monster where he belongs: in prison.

If she could, I think Joanne would thank you, as well.

That's how it seems, from where I stand.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

With each passing day I find it harder to be either a good Republican or a good Democrat. Senator Warner, top Republican on the Intelligence Committee just made a "shocking discovery." A $315 million building to house satellite contractors is being secretly built by our CIA, et al, intelligence conglomeration.

Is it possible that a main wheel in our U.S. Senate also doesn't know that our yearly "intelligence" (?) budget is 90 times the cost of that building? Perhaps neither he nor any of the other great wheels in our Congress have noticed that there are about a million better uses for $28 billion (per year) in our U.S. than secretly funding our CIA and related industries, none of whom seem to have any more practical value than milk glands on a bull.

And don't any of these supposed patriots in Congress care that our country was never intended to be led by a "secret government," whose existence and purpose and cost we are not even supposed to question?

While thinking about that sticky question, maybe we should consider getting our own act together before going all over our planet to shove democracy down some other people's necks.

Sure was nice of somebody to try to get the Simpson trial taken off TV on election days, so people would be able to vote. I expect there will be a lot of write-in votes for Simpson.

Great Bowls of Fire chili cook-off results

by Elizabeth Cowley

The first annual Great Bowls of Fire Chili cook-off was held on September 19 at the Holman Ranch in Carmel Valley. 19 local businesses entered the contest with prizes awarded in several professional and amateur categories. Seven celebrity judges from local restaurants and businesses appraised the offerings. The attendees voted on the Best of Show category.

In addition to loads of chili, cornbread, salad and cookies there was musical entertainment provided by the "Heartstring," Pat Ireland and William Faulkner, and professional ropers Debbie and Tommy Harris from Harris Stage Lines demonstrated trick roping techniques.

Robinson-Jeffers Festival

Nationally-known poet Sherod Santos will discuss the influence of the poetry of Robinson Jeffers during the Tor House Festival, to be held October 7 to 9 in Carmel. Other events include a free poetry walk, and seminars relating to Jeffers' life and works.

Santos attended Carmel High School during his student days, and his interest in literature made him curious about Robinson Jeffers, the prolific poet who built a stone house in 1919 on Carmel Point, and lived there until his death in 1962. Santos ultimately visited Tor House several times, and the experience drew Santos to a deeper understanding of Jeffers' poems and encouraged Santos to pursue a literary career.

Santos will speak on Saturday, October 8, at the annual Jeffers Banquet, to be held at Silver Jones Restaurant in Carmel. Dinner starts at 7:30 p.m. Reservations are $65: 624-1813.

Hospitality mentality lends Inn warmer feeling

Richard Bohannon is a rare breed of achiever. This new General Manager of the Carmel Valley Inn says, "I am driven by the work ethic."

The son of a San Francisco Oncologist and a professional organist, Richard worked all the way through his college years at UCLA, where he earned a B.A. in Economics.

"I didn't have to work," Richard explains, "I liked the challenge and I liked the extra money. My parents were taking care of all my expenses."

Through college, at the rate of 20 to 30 hours per week, Richard worked in the food service and catering business. "I enjoyed seeing how the Bel Aire folks live... And I liked the tips."

Convinced that his life could be fun, productive and successful, he headed for St. Thomas in the U.S. Virgin Islands and found a job at Fisherman's Reef working for Hyatt as a Bellman.

Unlike many of his fellow workers, Richard was there to learn. After one year he applied for and secured his first management position. "The club manager job gave me full responsibility for 96 rooms and paid about 30% less than the bellman position."

As the years on the island passed and his responsibilities and experience grew, he was convinced that the strategy of working for a resort made a lot more sense for him and it lacked the rat race pressures of Wall Street.

By 1991, while serving as the manager of the Hyatt Regency on St. Thomas, he reflected on "the impact of the external forces in a purely tourist economy." During his tenure, the island tourist industry had been devastated by the Eastern Airlines strike in 1988, Hurricane Hugo in 1989 and Persian Gulf War era, when many people were afraid to fly.

"I began to miss California and my family and began to carefully consider the places in California that would provide the resort environment and opportunity to further my career," said Richard in a reflective tone, "...that left the Monterey Peninsula, Tahoe and maybe Palm Springs."

The Monterey Peninsula won, when the Coastal Hotel Group hired him to be the front desk manager at the Highlands Inn.

Quick with numbers and wise in the art of providing excellent service to guests, in just two years he was promoted to Sales Manager for Inns of Monterey, which owns Highlands Inn and other peninsula hotels, as a subsidiary of Coastal Hotel Group.

At the Carmel Valley Inn, Richard is responsible for rooms, grounds and food service and coordination of activities with the Fox Hill Tennis Resort, which remains under the oversight of Barbara Crowley.

Renovation of the Carmel Valley Inn started several months ago. "We need to have people come take a closer look. 'We are a new product,' exclaimed Richard.

Richard Bohannon - "The answer is yes. Now, what is the question"

The Inn boasts a new tennis club and pro shop, along with resurfaced tennis courts, with all new hardware, nets and wind screens. This is one of two private club facilities where "you can play tennis and get a suntan," said Richard, "We are proud of that and our fine professional staff."

"The restaurant and bar have been entirely redone, with an exciting new western menu; done by Steve Wolf," Richard added.

"We want local support as we strive to provide a way to enjoy the Carmel Valley experience, affordably."

The entry, grounds and lobby of the Inn are in far along in the process of renovation and improvement. Furniture in the 44 room Inn has been ungraded, along with many detail improvements.

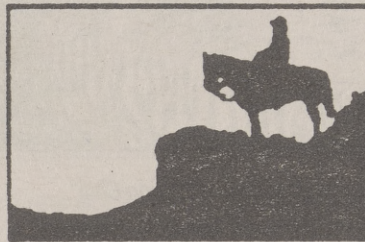

"My goal is to insure a 'hospitality mentality' at the Carmel Valley Inn, with a staff that is friendly and professional," said Richard pointing to a room full of new televisions ready to be installed in the rooms.

The new ownership of the Carmel Valley Inn has already moved the facility up several notches in appearance, taste and feel. Richard Bohannon's task is to refine the texture of the 50 year old establishment at the intersection of Carmel Valley Road and Laureles Grade into a vibrant hospitality destination for locals and visitors.

Gas prices stabilize

The California State Automobile Association (the AAA-affiliated auto club in Northern California and Nevada) reports that the average cost for self-serve, regular grade fuel has stabilized for the first time in six months.

Average gas prices remain at $1.28 per gallon in Northern California and $1.30 per gallon in Nevada, the same prices reported in CSAA's pre-Labor-Day survey.

Since March, gas prices have risen an average of 13 cents per gallon in Northern California and 16 cents per gallon in Nevada, according to CSAA's surveys.

"This year's record-breaking summer auto travel season is winding down, so less demand for fuel may cause prices to remain stable," said CSAA spokesperson Karen Hudson.

Gas prices dropped to a two-year low of $1.15 per gallon in January and remained stable until April, according to CSAA. Current gas prices are 6 to 8 cents higher than last September's average price of $1.22 per gallon.

CSAA provides travel, financial, insurance and motoring consumer services to 3.3 million California and Nevada AAA members. Its monthly survey of 600 Northern and Central California and Nevada gas retailers was conducted for CSAA by Computer Petroleum Corp. on September 20, 1994.

According to the September 1994 survey, the lowest price was $1.20 in Chico, California, and the highest price was $1.37 in So. Lake Tahoe, California.

Corrections and Clarifications

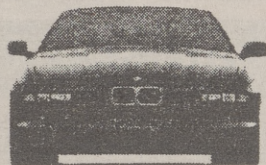

The correct telephone number to call to inquire about custom Monterey County vehicle licence plates is: 883-3850.

In the September 15, 1994 issue, at page 4, the name in the photo caption should have been Dave Nelson, the co-owner of Hacienda Hay and Feed.

Andretti made a dramatic entrance in his IndyCar racing career by beating A.J. Foyt for the 1965 series championship on his first full season of competition.

But that was just the start. Since then, he has won everything there is to win. He has won the Formula One World Championship. He has won races on paved ovals, road courses and dirt tracks. In fact, he has won on all three types of tracks in the same season - four times. He has been named "Driver of the Year" in three different decades.

Laguna Seca Raceway is operated by the Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula (SCRAMP). A non-profit organization since its inception in 1957, SCRAMP has donated over 5 million dollars to numerous local area charities.

New university offers gardening program

The University of California Cooperative Extension office in Watsonville has given the official blessing to a Master Gardener Program for Monterey Bay.

To be known as the "Monterey Bay Master Gardener Program," the new program will serve Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties.

Master Gardeners are volunteers who have been recruited and trained by land grant universities throughout the United States and Canada. The programs are coordinated by local horticulture advisors at county cooperative extension offices with the primary goal to answer the myriad of questions from home gardeners.

Master Gardeners, once certified, extend to their communities the benefits of horticulture research developed at the University level.

Today there are Master Gardener Programs in 26 counties in California, and it is estimated that there are nearly 6,000 trained volunteers statewide and 60,000 in 48 states and Canada. California Master Gardeners interact with over half a million home gardeners a year.

The Monterey Bay Master Gardener Program will be overseen by Sonja Hammond, Director, and Steve Tjosvold, Farm Advisor, UC Cooperative Extension in Watsonville.

To be a certified UCCE Master Gardener, a volunteer must complete 14 weeks of classroom training, 50 hours of community volunteer time and several advanced training classes.

Classes will begin on January 14, 1995. They will be held on the next fourteen Saturdays, from noon to 4 p.m., at the UCCE offices on Freedom Blvd. in Watsonville. A class schedule is available by calling Cynthia Jordan at 426-9673.

Volunteers needed for Laguna Seca Indy

Volunteers are needed to help direct traffic at Laguna Seca Raceway during the PPG Indycar World Series on October 7, 8 & 9, while Mario Andretti will be driving in his retirement race.

Volunteers receive free admission to the event, a T-shirt, free snacks and the gratitude of all the nonprofits benefiting from these events.

Shifts are 6:30 a.m. to 12:30 and 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. There will be a mandatory orientation meeting at Laguna Seca the week before the race. Date and time will be announced in the near future. This event benefits many local charities, including the Volunteer Center. Volunteers for this event are supporting the Volunteer Center's efforts to promote volunteerism in Monterey County.

Other events during the Tor House Festival include a free poetry walk focusing on "Jeffers, Ecology, and the Monterey Coast Range." Docents John Courtney and Burt Kessenick will be joined by naturalist Jeff Norman to talk about the way that Jeffers' poems -- which frequently address specific locations along the coast and in the mountains of Monterey County -- relate to the informed (and at times cosmic) appreciation of nature, coupled with a stark view of humankind. The public is invited, and the poetry walk will begin on Sunday, October 9, at 9:20 a.m. from the parking lot at the entrance to the bird sanctuary and state beach at the south foot of Carmelo Street, with free coffee and cakes available from 8:30 a.m. Bring a brown bag lunch, as the walk lasts until noon.

On Saturday, October 8, two seminars will be held at Carpenter Hall in Carmel's Sunset Center. At 10 a.m., scholars Tyrus Harmsen, Ward Ritchie, and Robert Brophy will discuss Melba Berry Bennett, who wrote the first biography of Robinson Jeffers in the 1960s.

At 2 p.m., librarians from Occidental College, the McHenry Library at UC Santa Cruz, the Gleeson Library at the University of San Francisco, and the Harrison Memorial Library in Carmel will discuss special holdings relating to Jeffers. Admission is $10 in advance for combined seminars, or $8 for individual seminars at the door.

The ongoing publication of Jeffers' collected poems by Stanford University (with three volumes now in print, and a fourth on the way) has spurred renewed interest in special collection material.

In addition, there will be a reception for Sherod Santos and other festival authors on Friday, October 7, at 4 p.m. in the Tor House garden, 26304 Ocean View Ave., in Carmel. Admission is $8, free to those with reservations to other festival events.

There will also be a display of manuscript papers from Bennett's biography of Jeffers on display Friday and Saturday at the Harrison Memorial Library (Park Branch), 6th and Mission in Carmel.

The annual Robinson Jeffers Festival is sponsored by the Tor House Foundation, a nonprofit group that promotes appreciation of Jeffers' poetry and maintains his former residence, Tor House, as a literary shrine.

Docent-led tours of Tor House are held on Fridays and Saturdays throughout the year. For information on the Robinson Jeffers Festival or Tor House tours, call 624-1813.

VALLEY FINANCE Douglas Pease

If our stand on one side or the other of the universal medical care debate is a question of philosophy, consider the following:

When we are 65 and suffer a stroke sufficiently disabling to require constant medical care, we can enjoy hospitalization benefits under Medicare. Upon release from the hospital we can then enjoy 100 days of recovery care in an authorized facility, also under Medicare, if our physician swears we are enroute to recovery and if an approved facility has space for us. After 100 days, we foot the bills . . . or leave. If we cannot pay and we cannot leave, we become wards of the State of California under MediCal, by virtue of destitution.

Destitution means whatever we enjoyed as a quality of life before we went to the hospital won't be there if the State is to pay for our recovery care. Who wants to recover, given that choice? Very few, apparently.

We can buy some "Long Term Care" insurance. At $500 a year, or $1,000 a year, or $3,000 a year depending on our age and the coverage, we will probably pass up the chance unless we have a substantial estate to protect from possible future erosion at the current average of $36,000 annually for long term care expenses.

So who pays the bills for those of our elderly citizens who require constant care but are destitute? Right; we do.

Philosophically, the present arrangements for funding long term care protections offer horrible choices to rich and poor alike in our country, and in our state. Have we looked deeply enough into the current round of proposed universal medical care legislation to see how it might fund long term care? Would it do a better job at any stop along the road to destitution?

Ask yourself, "At $36,000 a year, how long could I or my family meet my long term care costs, if necessary?" Or better still, "At $36,000 a year, how long will I be willing to share the long term care costs of a ward of the state?"

Such questions could generate a very personal philosophy to guide us through the proposed universal medical coverage plans and their debates. Something more realistic than, "May we all live long and prosper!"

Reynoso added, "I aim for the service to be excellent and look forward to serving the Valley community."

The restaurant is open for lunch and dinner Tuesday through Sunday at 19 E. Carmel Valley Road in the White Oaks Center.
